Our Farm

OUR FARM IS THE INDUSTRY LEADER IN PRODUCT QUALITY

Hemp oil quality is at the center of everything we do. This means we make sure our products meet or exceed our customers’ expectations. Customers often can’t tell where their products came from, what’s in them or even if they’re safe. At our CO farm, we thrive on attention to quality and safety. We grow all of our hemp in-house at Colorado farms, and then process it in state-of-the-art extractors. These procedures allow us to insure the highest quality. The result is all-natural hemp oil derived from hemp plants grown on our farms in Colorado. The farm tests the potency of every batch we produce.

HERE ARE SOME FACTS:

- Our natural hemp oil sourced from Otto II & BaOx cannabis strains.
- Our products are NOT marijuana.
- We are lab-tested, certified and insured.
- We exclusively use organic farming practices.
- There are NO preservatives, artificial flavors, or sweeteners.
- There are NO additives or dyes.
- Our products are gluten-free, soy-free, vegan.

Our Core Purpose

At GreenTree Natural Wellness Center our Company's mission and vision is to provide an alternative to traditional pharmaceuticals, and to ensure our customers continuously receive the best quality CBD hemp products. We believe in cultivating health by Honesty, Nature and Wellness making tomorrow better and enhancing our community. Our CEO’s motto is “We have never met a stranger”.

Our team, made up of chemists and scientists are dedicated to producing the finest and purest full spectrum CBD extract while never compromising on quality. All of our products are internally tested and independently third party tested. Through our efforts in research and development, our primary goal is to create diverse, high-quality CBD hemp products while targeting therapeutic areas whereby CBD has been shown to improve.

WHAT IS "CANNABIDIOL (CBD)"?

Cannabidiol (CBD) is a non-psychoactive cannabinoid derived from the hemp plant. CBD has many holistic benefits that have been reported in a variety of clinical studies and continues to amaze as we discover more. It has been noted that CBD acts as an antagonist to THC and therefore changes the psychoactive effects of the THC compound. Cannabinoid receptor 1 (CB1) are found primarily in the brain and Cannabinoid receptors 2 (CB2) are predominantly found in the immune system. CB2 receptors appear to be responsible for the anti-inflammatory and possibly other therapeutic effects of CBD. THC works primarily on the CB1 receptor whereas CBD works primarily on the CB2 receptors with little effect on CB1. Cannabidiol is one of the most exciting cannabinoids natural compounds found in cannabis that we are aware of today. Cannabidiol is transforming from a little-known molecule, to a potential breakthrough nutritional component and treatment. Cannabidiol (CBD) is found throughout the seeds, stalk and flowers of cannabis plants including hemp and marijuana. Unlike many of the 85+ cannabinoids that we are aware of, cannabidiol occurs naturally in significant quantities in cannabis or hemp, so it is relatively easily extracted from the plant.

Hemp vs Marijuana There is considerable confusion among people when it comes to the difference between hemp and marijuana. The difference is very important, because in the US when the CBD oil is extracted from research-based hemp plant less than .3% THC it is considered a nutritional supplement, legal in all 50 states. However, the same CBD oil is extracted from non-research-based cannabis sativa plant it is a scheduled I drug. There is no medical or scientific reason for this, only politics and financial incentives. GreenTree Naturals is THC Free as the CBD has been refined and is extracted from a high degree CBD hemp plant.

Sweet Spot

When it comes to using CBD for medical purposes, a little is better than a lot. Most of the therapeutic effects from CBD occurs in ranges of a few milligrams. If you take too much, the excess amounts of CBD in the blood stream will literally flood the cannabinoid receptors (CB1 and CB2). These receptors are not flooded naturally, so when this occurs, the receptors tend to sink inside the cells, leaving fewer receptors. This will result in more medication being necessary to get the same effect. When this occurs, it is called tolerance.

The goal when using CBD is to reach the “Sweet Spot”, the blood levels that is high enough to have a therapeutic effect, but not too high that it floods the receptors and leads to tolerance. Most people will have to titrate up to the “Sweet Spot”.

Technology

Our phytocannabinoid rich hemp oil products endure a gentle proprietary engineering process to create our high CBD potency formula. Extraction methods maintain the full plant profile ensuring our customers a full spectrum of cannabinoids, terpenes, and fatty acids from the natural plant. Cold, enclosed, and continuous manufacturing processes prevents the degradation of natural molecules during extraction and purification. Our state-of-the-art facilities allow us the ability and capacity to produce thousands of kilos of phytocannabinoids for our customers and clients. Our company maintains GMP practices throughout the supply chain, with a dedication to transparency to our customers and clients. Testing is done in-house and verified through independent, third-party labs using HPLC testing methods, with certificates of analysis and potency reports available for review.

The Entourage Effect

The entourage effect is the term used to describe enhancement of efficacy, with related improvement in overall therapeutic effectiveness, derived from combining phytocannabinoids and other plant-derived molecules.

Essential fatty acids have been a darling of the natural products industry for over three decades, taking the spotlight for the essential role that omega-3, omega-6, and omega-9 fats play for optimal brain, heart, vascular, muscular, joint, ocular (visual), hormonal, and skin health. These fatty acids are found readily in total plant complex-containing GreenTree Naturals dietary supplement products completely derived from hemp.

Hemp Terpenes have been a hot topic amongst scientists, enthusiasts, experts, and consumers in this space, and for good reason. Terpenes present in high caliber agriculture hemp such as myrcin, squalene, phytol, and humulene have been shown to interact with cannabinoid receptors and physiologic systems including immune, nervous, and gastrointestinal systems.

WILL GREENTREE NATURALS CBD SHOW UP ON A DRUG TEST?

Fortunately, the urine drug screen for THC-COOH is known to have very little cross-reactivity to other cannabinoids that are not psychoactive, such as CBD(cannabidiol), CBG (cannabigerol), CBN (cannabinol), and others. This is good news for “normal” consumers of CBD/hemp oil.

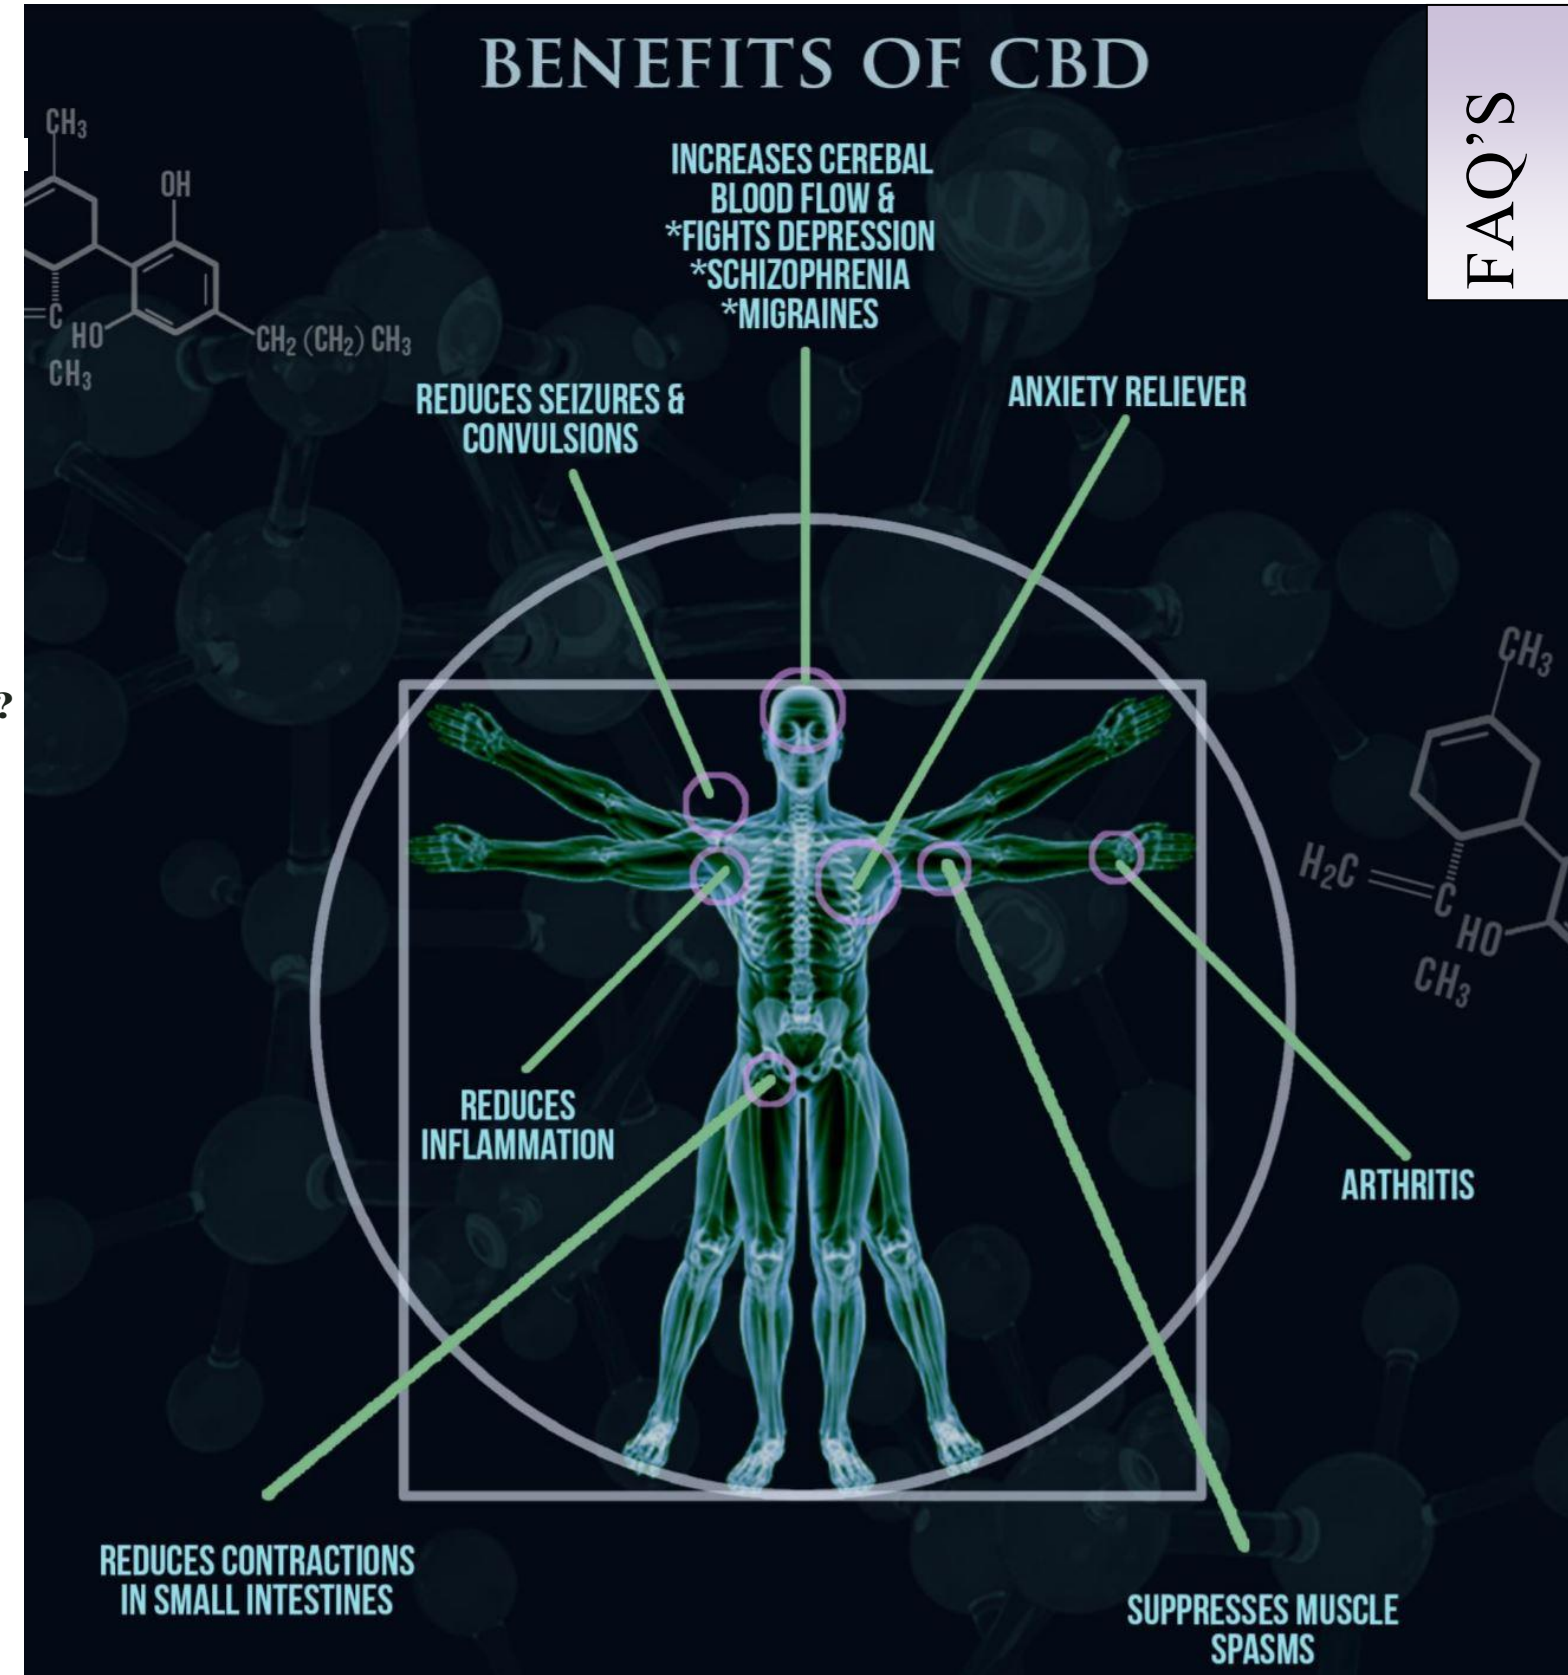

That said, individuals using unusually large doses of a cannabinoid-rich hemp oil product (above 1000-2000 mg of hemp oil daily) could theoretically test positive during the initial urinary screen. Although very rare, the urine screen in these cases would likely represent a “false positive” due to other non-THC metabolites or compounds, which may cross-react with the immunoassay. When this is the case, the confirmatory GC/MS test would be negative, since CBD and other cannabinoids will not be detected by the more accurate (and specific) GC/MS screen.

IS CBD LEGAL TO PURCHASE OR DO I NEED A MEDICAL CARD?

CBD is legal to buy in all 50 states. We utilize a natural CBD Isolate, which happens to be the only technique to eliminate all THC which makes it legal to order and consume. Our third-party lab results from the most well-known labs in the industry validate 0% THC, along with no pesticides or residual solvents.

WILL CBD GET YOU HIGH?

GreenTree Naturals CBD is a non-psychoactive. This means that you will not get "high" from our products.

WHAT IS THE ENDOCANNABINOID SYSTEM?

The Endocannabinoid System (ECS) is a collection of cell receptors within a mammal's body. Scientists discovered this system in the 1990s. Cannabinoids work with the mammalian Endocannabinoid System (ECS), which is a vast and vital receptor system essential for maintaining homeostasis, or good health. This receptor system exists in the immune system, the central nervous system, and within many organs. The ECS accepts our bodies' own endocannabinoids as well as the cannabinoids found in hemp. The ECS is designed to repair damaged cells and provide a state of internal stability necessary for survival, despite fluctuations in our external environment. A human's endocannabinoid system affects many regions of the body, including functions of the immune system, the central nervous system (including the brain), organs, connective tissue, and glands. The ECS assists in various biological tasks, including appetite, analgesia, energy & balance, immune function, memory, metabolism, sleep, stress response, thermoregulation, and the function of the autonomic nervous system. A cannabinoid is a compound that fits into a cannabinoid receptor. Hemp produces over 80 different cannabinoids that work synergistically with a mammal's endocannabinoid system. GreenTree Naturals products are whole-plant extracts that include a range of beneficial compounds found in hemp, including cannabinoids and other phyto-compounds (such as terpenes and flavonoids) that work together to heighten health benefits, otherwise known in science as the Entourage Effect. When our bodies are deficient in endocannabinoids, GreenTree Naturals phyto-cannabinoids can be introduced to stimulate activity in the ECS's major receptors, CB1 and CB2. The effects are systemic and restore proper balance, allowing for a self-regulated immune response to a variety of ailments.
